1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem. It is shown that the problem is of great importance in the theory of functions of a complex variable. The problem is solved in the case of a certain class of functions.
 The second part of the paper is devoted to a detailed study of the properties of the functions obtained in the first part. It is shown that these functions have certain properties which are of interest in the theory of functions of a complex variable. The third part of the paper is devoted to a study of the properties of the functions obtained in the second part. It is shown that these functions have certain properties which are
 of interest in the theory of functions of a complex variable. The fourth part of the paper is devoted to a study of the properties of the functions obtained in the third part. It is shown that these functions have certain properties which are
 of interest in the theory of functions of a complex variable. The fifth part of the paper is devoted to a study of the properties of the functions obtained in the fourth part. It is shown that these functions have certain properties which are
 of interest in the theory of functions of a complex
 variable.

The Name and Family of Long

There is a family tradition to the effect that the ancient English family of Long was descended from a yeoman of early days, who was called Long Thomas and was given land at Wraxall, in Wiltshire, by one of the Lords Hungerford. He is said to have had two sons, Robert and Henry, from the younger of whom was descended one Thomas Long, who was the father of Sir Henry and Sir Richard.

At a slightly later date one Robert Long Esq., who was undoubtedly descended from the above mentioned line of the family, was in possession of the Manor of Wraxall in the early Fifteenth Century and was a member of Parliament in the year 1433.

It is said that all of the numerous branches of the family in England were descended originally from the Wiltshire line.

The coat of arms as described is "Sable, semee of cross-crosslets, a lion rampant argent." The crest was a crown with a demi-lion rampant holding a glove in his mouth, granted one of them who fought with Henry VIII on the Field of the Cloth of Gold. The motto was originally, "PIEUX QUOIQUE PREUX," which can be translated as "Pious Altho Gallant."

THE LONG FAMILY OF CASS COUNTY, MICHIGAN

INTRODUCTION

This work does not pretend to be a complete genealogy of the Long Family of Cass County, Michigan, but is compiled for the purpose of record that others may add to the information herein contained and thus have a more complete record of the descendants of David Long and possibly collect data on his ancestors as has been collected and listed in this work on the ancestors of Lydia Nash, wife of David Long.

There were Longs in New England at a very early date. Some of those recorded include Robert Long of Plymouth in 1623, Richard Long of Weymouth in 1635, and John Long in Hartford, Conn., in 1640. We know of no direct connection between these men and David Long, but it is possible that such a connection exists. There were 47 Longs from the State of Massachusetts listed as soldiers in the Revolutionary War. Many were listed from Virginia.

The general plan has been followed in this genealogy of arranging the families by generations and indicating the generation from the original ancestor by a Roman numeral in capitals. Each individual is indicated by an Arabic numeral and in addition the several children in each family are indicated by a Roman numeral, lower case. Thus viii-5-iii Edward Cassius b. 11-1-1843 is the eighth generation on American soil, fifth child in the generation, and third child in the family.

FIRST GENERATION

On July 26, 1637, a company formed mostly of merchants from London, England, landed at Boston, Mass. In that company it is justly supposed came Thomas Nash with his wife, Marguary, (daughter of Nicholas Baker of Hertfordshire) and five children, Mary, John, Sarah, Joseph, and Timothy. Mary was the wife of Roger Allen, and Sarah was the wife of Robert Talmage. All of these children were named in the will of their father, which was made August 1, 1657.

This Thomas Nash is recorded as having been in New Haven, Conn., in 1643, or earlier, and in Guilford (17 miles east of New Haven) in 1639. He died May 12, 1658. His wife died February 11, 1656.

I. THOMAS NASH married Marguary Baker. Had the following children:

- II. 1. i. Mary, married Roger Allen.
2. ii. John.
3. iii. Sarah, married Robert Talmage.
4. iv. Joseph.
5. v. Timothy, b. 1626, d. 3-13-1699.

SECOND GENERATION

Timothy Nash, the youngest son of Thomas Nash, was born in England, or Leyden, Holland, in 1626. This seems to indicate his parents, like the early Pilgrims, left England to seek religious liberty. He was eleven years old when he landed in America and his parents apparently settled at New Haven, Conn. However, as he reached manhood, he was listed as being from Hartford, Conn. In 1657 he married Rebecca Stone, daughter of Rev. Samuel Stone. Their first three children were born in New Haven, Conn.

In 1663 Timothy Nash and family moved to Hadley, Mass. They formed the head of the Hadley branch of the Nash family. Timothy Nash was a freeman of Massachusetts, 1678, a Lieut. and a man of influence.

II. 5. v. Timothy Nash, s. Thomas Nash and Marguary (Baker), m. Rebecca Stone (1657), daughter of Rev. Samuel Stone. Had the following children:

- III. 1. i. Rebeka, b. 3-12-1658, New Haven, Conn.
2. ii. Samuel, b. 2-8-1660, killed by a horse at age of 8 years.
3. iii. Thomas, b. 1661.
4. iv. Joseph, b. 1-27-1664, Hadley, Mass.
5. v. Timothy, b. 1665, Hadley, Mass.
6. vi. John, b. 8-21-1667, Hadley, Mass.
7. vii. Samuel 2nd, b. 6-17-1669.
8. viii. Hope, b. 11-20-1670.
9. ix. Ebenezer, b. 10-25-1673.
10. x. Daniel, b. 1676.
11. xi. Ephriam, b. 1682.
12. xii. Mary, b. 1684, d. 1687.

2. ii. John, b. 7-2-1694.

8. viii. Benjamin, b. July 3, 1750, South Hadley, Mass.; d. June 17, 1797, Shelburne, Mass.

FIFTH GENERATION

Benjamin Nash, son of Daniel and Abigail Nash, was born July 3, 1750 at South Hadley, Mass. He moved to Shelburne, Mass., about the time or soon after the close of the Revolutionary War. This man is in the rate book in Shelburne at as early a date as 1777.

A rather complete account of Benjamin Nash's record as a Revolutionary soldier follows. This data may be helpful to any true descendant who might seek membership in the D. A. R. and who is otherwise qualified for membership in that society.

The following brief account of Benjamin Nash was given by Charles M. Taintor, Esq., of Shelburne. "He married Lydia Skinner, daughter of Deacon Aaron Skinner, of Gloucester, whose wife was Eunice Taintor. Benjamin Nash was a blacksmith, also a merchant or trader, in this town. He was one of the most popular men in Shelburne. Died, June 17, 1797; age 47. He appears to have been cut off in the midst of his activity and usefulness."

She married David Long, Esq., of Shelbourne, where they resided until the Spring of 1830, when they moved to York, New York, and thence some years later a part of the family moved to Cass County, Porter Township, Michigan. Mrs. Long died July 25, 1848.

David Long and wife, Lydia, were early settlers in Michigan and settled on a section of land. The usual log cabin of pioneer days was their home. It is presumed that all living children except Orlando David accompanied the parents to Michigan.

Oscar Newton Long, s. of David Long and Lydie (Nash), m. Phebe Monroe, b. 3-24-1817. They came to Michigan in a covered wagon, where they built and lived in a log house until the children were nearly grown. O. N. Long then built one of the first substantial frame houses in that section.

O. N. Long was rather civic minded as he donated ground for the community cemetery known for years as the Long Cemetery.. The first right hand quarter was reserved for the Long family down to his grandchildren.

From an early history of Cass County we find that the bricks were made and burned on the farm of O. N. Long to construct the Baptist Church, known as the South Porter Church.

He was a man of considerable means at the time of the Civil War. His oldest son, Henry, and youngest son, James enlisted in the Union Army. Edward was left home, against his wishes, to run the farm and when the draft was applied a substitute was hired from Kalamazoo County for the sum of seven hundred dollars. The two sons and the substitute returned after the war.

O. N. Long and son, Henry, owned a general store at Jones, Mich., which burned and nearly ruined this once rather well to do man. He died 2-7-1883.

David Perry Ward, father of Ida May Ward, lived in or near Union, Mich., on the old Military Road, now U. S. Highway No. 112, in Cass County. He was one of the few educated men in this early settlement. His occupation was that of millwright and it is rather certain he was a civil engineer. He could lay out a mill and figure the power available from the stream to be used.

David Ward built a very intricate loom on which counterpanes and rugs with decorative designs were woven. The writer has seen on display at the art institute in Chicago such work with which his compared very favorably.

My sister has one of the counterpanes woven in blue and white designs and in the corner woven, "Presented to Ida May Ward by David P. Ward."

David Ward knew something of medicine as he vaccinated many of his neighbors during a smallpox epidemic.

David Ward was a Free Mason and reached the rank of Knight Templar. He married Ann Boyle of Canada. It is possible Ward came from Canada. He died at the age of 49. Four daughters were born to this union—Helen, Zoa, Ida May, and Lillian.

Helen married Frank Herod. Zoa married first a Mr. Lake. They had one son, Albert Lake. Zoa's second husband was John Kidder. Two children were born to this union—Stilman Kidder, of Muskegon, Mich., and Lillian Kidder, who married a Mr. Jacobs, a bookbinder of Benton Harbor.

Lillian Ward married George McDonald. They had one daughter, Gertrude McDonald.

APPENDIX

A few months after the previous pages of this pamphlet were printed it was the writer's good fortune to contact Attorney Hallock P. Long, of Washington, D. C., who had collected data on the Massachusetts Longs; also, some important data was collected from old family papers held by cousin Ada (McHuron) Gilbert. With this information I am able to trace the ancestors of David Long, my great grandfather, who was born December 13, 1780. This data is as follows:

1. John Long and wife, Jennie, with two sons came to Taunton, Mass., from Ireland in or about 1729. It is believed their ancestors moved to Ulster from Wiltshire, England, during the religious unrest in the reign of the Stewart Kings.
This couple had three sons, the third born in America.
2. i. John, b. 1-19-1720; d. 1797. Married, 1745, Mary Taft.
3. ii. David, b. 1724; d. 10-16-1784. Married, 1747, Mrs. Martha Woodward.
4. iii. James, b. 1730, d. 1789. Married, 1757, Elizabeth Cook.

Line of David and Martha Woodward Long of Taunton, Mass.

3. David and Martha (Woodward) Long will be listed first as it is with this branch the pamphlet deals. They had the following children.
